Millthorpe eNews

The variety and talent of the Millthorpe community continue to delight both locals and visitors.

The “Secret Women’s Business” Dinner has been meeting monthly for years, with no other agenda but to enjoy good food and good company. It is a self organising group and to make things easier for themselves and potential new members they have created a Facebook group. Search for SWB Dinner Millthorpe and ask to join; that way you will be automatically updated. No one is really in charge, but if you want to speak to someone Virginia de Santis is the one to contact on 0457 672 748. All women welcome!

Speaking of women ... Congratulations to Mary Ann Mein, Millthorpe art teacher and horticulturalist for her selection to exhibit at the Royal Botanic Garden’s Sydney: Botanica Symbiosis botanical art.

Musicians regularly treat locals at Club Millthorpe aka the Bowlo to their music. Cool jazz with a Bathurst based group Pengopuss played on 27 April. The band was fronted by Alison Laver, a former Millthorpe resident. Lovely locals – who form Friday Night Live will be rocking on 4 May. The audience can never resist getting up dancing. It doesn’t stop there! Safety of Life at Sea, another Bathurst based group will be playing acoustic, folksy blues on 24th May. If you love music Millthorpe is the place to go.

The Millthorpe Village Committee continues to look out for the beauty and functionality of the village.

The Police Paddock adjacent to the Redmond Oval car park located behind the RFS and Police House is in the final processes of being vested to the BSC on behalf of the MVC. The intention of this area is to refurbish the items of heritage significance and create a restful passive recreation space in a parkland garden setting.

Landscaping priorities are being developed for the Rotunda and playground plantings, Museum lane, Pym Street and Vittoria Road and other village Streets.
